

The California Health Workforce Education and Training Council

Biography

Rehman Attar

Rehman Attar is the Director of Healthcare Workforce Development at the California State University (CSU) Office of the Chancellor. In this role, Rehman provides strategic leadership regarding advancing academic programs, educational solutions, and workforce development programming throughout the CSU system's healthcare programs. With a background in public health, Rehman is dedicated to enhancing the collaboration between education and industry to address inequities in the labor market throughout the state, to increase social mobility, to improve educational equity and to develop a diverse and responsive workforce. Before joining the Office of the Chancellor, Rehman worked for several years for a diverse range of government and nonprofit organizations where he was involved in increasing educational opportunities and improving health outcomes and accessibility for communities throughout the state. As a recognized leader in the healthcare industry and in educational enterprises, Rehman has successfully leveraged a variety of resources and engaged industry leaders to create new and innovative opportunities.